

Free equipment for the disabled

After my wife passed away, we have several items that may be useful for people with disabilities.

	Ramp for a wheel chair. It's 12' long, 40" wide and goes up 2 steps My son and I can bring it to your home and install it as appropriate.
	Foldable wheelchair This model is convenient at home – small back wheels make it easy to maneuver through corridors and doors. It folds very easily.
	Drive Rollator It has four wheels, breaks and a seat doubling for a small bag for water bottle and such. It folds, but you have to watch the seat bag content when folding.

Walker

It has two wheels and two legs.

We also have a set of plastic sliders that can be used instead of tennis balls. Tennis balls are quieter / less slippery.

It folds very easily

Two grabbers for picking up things from shelves etc.

Very useful for people with limited movability to pick up things while in bed.

Orthopedic belt for securing / stiffening the spine

Fits a regular size person, and also has straps for easy adjustment / securing the belt tight.

Cushion for easing back pains & strains

It's foam, has two indents

Inflatable wheelchair cushion.

We also have available a different inflatable cushion, sort of squarish donut shaped.

Shower or bathtub stool.

A commode for less mobile patients.

The bucket comes with a package of plastic bags fitting in the bucket, so it's easy to keep the bucket pristine clean.

3 packages of medium size bed mats used to prevent soiling etc.
